Highlights

1. The Manhattan District Attorney's office is committed to the fight against domestic violence. Our office provides presentations on the criminal justice process in domestic violence cases at no cost to staff members at organizations throughout Manhattan. The presentations vary from 30 minutes to an hour and are conducted by a specialized Assistant District Attorney, along with an advocate from the Witness Aid Services Unit. The presenters will explain and answer questions on the criminal justice process in domestic violence cases, as well as, provide resources for victims or survivors of domestic violence in NYC. If you are interested, please fill out the following form <http://bit.ly/EducationRequest> or contact Giselle Inoa-Aquino directly via email inoaaquinog@dany.nyc.gov or phone 347-417-2001. 2. D.A. Vance and NYPD Commissioner Shea announced the takedown of a drug trafficking ring based in West Harlem. This will disrupt the organization's ability to pump narcotics into the streets of our communities. West Harlem drug dealers employed local teenagers to sell heroin and crack cocaine, prosecutors said in a 78-count indictment handed up Thursday in Manhattan. During a full day of arraignments in Manhattan Supreme Court, Assistant District Attorney Kaitrin Roberts told the court of how the well-oiled organization, code-named "Main Event," pumped narcotics into the streets of Harlem for more than a year while under the watchful eye of the NYPD and investigators from the Manhattan DA's office.
